Title	Tibbals Circus Collection of Buster Bailey Films
Physical Description	217 Super 8mm films 4 8mm films
Language	English
Arrangement	Unarranged
Summary	The Tibbals Collection of Buster Bailey Films capture Bailey’s insider’s view of circus. The general circus community embraced Bailey’s familiar presence on the circus lot, granting him extraordinary access to the lots and venues of a variety of circuses including the AL G. Barnes Circus, Clyde Beatty Cole Circus, Amsterdam Circus, Moscow Circus, Russian Ice Show and Circus Benneweis. Bailey’s footage of these circuses feature several performances and circus set-ups in venues across America, including scenes of winter quarters, trains loading and unloading, the backyard, animal acts, spec productions, tumbling acts, rolla bolla acts, clown gags, trapeze and web numbers, and much more. Also captured in this collection are Bailey's tours of European circus parks, the circus parade in Baraboo, Wisconsin, and Chicago, Illinois, and the Circus Hall of Fame in Sarasota, Florida.

Administrative Information

Provenance	After, Bailey's death, Howard Tibbals purchased this collection directly from the wife of Elden Chandler Bailey. In 2019, Howard Tibbals donated to The Ringling Archives this film collection and all rights.
Information about Access	The Tibbals Circus Collection of Buster Bailey Films may be viewed on Florida State University's Digital Library's Online Repository, DigiNole. Follow this link to the collection. https://fsu.digital.flvc.org/islandora/object/fsu:ringlingmain

Processing Note	Ron Levere and Kenny Dodd completed a survey of this collection. Each film was viewed and a reference copy captured by projecting on a wall and capturing footage with a digital camera. Deane Belch wrote a description of each film and created the original inventory. In 2019, Alex Buono labeled this collection and completed a MODS metadata element set spreadsheet for hosting the collection on DigiNole. Alex Buono and H. Connor created a finding aid in August 2020. Funding from a 2019 "Recordings At Risk" grant through the Center for Library and Information Resources supported the digitization, cleaning and re-housing of this film collection in 2020 by Memnon Digitization and Asset Preservation Services.

Biographical Note

Elden Chandler “Buster” Bailey spent 42 years as a percussionist with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra and was a faculty member at Juilliard School of Music from 1969 to 1993. He died in April of 2004 at the age of 81. He is fondly remembered by students and colleagues as the greatest snare drum player that ever lived and as a life-long lover of circus music.

In a 2004 interview, with New York Times writer George James, Barbara Bailey reminisces that in the early 1960's, through a colleague at the Philharmonic, Buster Bailey met Merle Evans, the music director of the Ringling Bros and Barnum & Bailey Circus band, and Red Floyd, its drummer, and they became good friends. From this point on, whenever the circus was in New York, Merle Evans arranged for him to receive circus passes and Mr. Bailey attended whenever he could, absorbing how the circus band supported circus acts. He became so knowledgeable that when Red Floyd took ill one day in the mid 1960's, Mr. Evans turned to Mr. Bailey to take his place. Buster sat in for three days, happily playing drum rolls for thrilling acts and climaxing with a rim shot. For Buster, it was the biggest thrill of his life.

Buster Bailey's last recording, for Angel Records in 1993, was a collection of circus songs, Under the Big Top, with a group he assembled named the Great American Main Street Band.

After 42 years with the Philharmonic, Buster Bailey retired to Sarasota, Florida. He and his wife were familiar with Sarasota having visited annually to see the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey band members they had become friends with over the years.
